About the Seminar – ICSSR

A famous quote goes like this,

“Learning never exhausts the Mind”

A Very Good Morning to all the dignitaries on the dais and off the dais!

A Warm welcome to the One Day National Seminar entitled “Mentoring Faculties in Workplace – Post Covid Effect” sponsored by Indian Council of Social Science Research, Ministry of Human Resource Development Government of India.

Faculty mentoring more senior faculty members shares the experience, expertise and advice regarding research, teaching and other professional development issues with the upcoming teaching fraternity. Academics often think of mentoring as guidance for assistant professors seeking tenure, but it also applies to tenured professors working towards career development and goals. A mentoring relationship includes at least two faculty members: mentor and mentee. Experiences of both mentor and mentee are relevant and valuable. Mentors should refer a mentee to colleagues, as appropriate, for further clarification on policies, additional information and advice, or potential collaboration.

Differences in personality, opinions, or communication styles need not preclude a successful mentorship. With mutual respect, mentor and mentee can develop a fruitful, effective mentoring relationship that transcends their differences.

The objectives of the One Day National level seminar.,

- ✓ To Help Newer or junior faculty members acclimate to formal and informal norms of the department, college and university.
- ✓ Foster effective research skills and publishing strategies. ✓ Encourage faculty members to refine and expand teaching strategies. ✓ Guide faculty members in progression toward promotion and tenure; and
- ✓ Foster an atmosphere of Team work.

The sub-themes of this seminar are

- Role of Mentor today
- Mentorism an effective tool for Success
- Recent Style of Mentorism
- Need for Mentors in educational institutions.

We thank our Chief Guest Dr.L.S.Ganesh and all our resource person and the participants for their response and participation.

We hope this One Day National Level Seminar will be grand success. Thank you.,
